

WEEKLY CITIZEN.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 1, 1887

The Firemen, the G. A. R. and A. O. U. W. organizations will jointly hold an exterior parade around their plots in the city cemetery.

Lists for subscriptions to the testimonial sword for General Miles are now open in Globe, Tomlinson, Wilcox, Florence, Pinal, Pima, Puerco and Tucson.

Several fine and young mountain sheep have been purchased by Mr. C. F. Schumacher, and the patrons of the Union Market will see a nice treat with this excellent game.

Attention is called to the advertisement of Leonard Conner, nurseryman, Napa City, California. Send him your list of orders for fruit trees, grape vines, and general nursery stock.

About twenty persons have taken up government land during the past month between this city and Fort Lowell. Nearly every acre has been entered.

A small bay horse, branded J. W., was brought to Casa Grande on Saturday by a young man. The animal is supposed to have been stolen from this city.

Negley Post No. 35, G. A. R., at its meeting last night, elected Messrs. Robt. Frazer, president, and Brown as delegates to the Department, Encampment, and Geo. O. Hand and R. B. Kelly as alternates.

Messrs. Wheeler & Perry remembered the Christmas spirit, and have been furnishing their customers during the past few days. It is the genuine article and reminds one of the good old days in the east when a long straw and an accessible bungalow were luxuries of youthful days that one seldom forgets.

Mr. H. D. Underwood, who does the office work of the U. S. Marshal's office, is from Tucson, and tells us that, although there is no boom in the section of the territory, people, generally, are satisfied with the country, and planning and working for its development.

The warm darning was not forgotten of his friends on Christmas day, and generous samples of the choice goods that promise to make the country forever safe to hand at the opportune moment. Cal Dur is entitled to a resolution of thanks and a gold sword also for the various evidences he has given of his great love of all human kind.

The concentrator and amalgamator constructed under the supervision of Mr. J. F. Sanders, the inventor, was completed Tuesday, and examined by a host of people who had been waiting patiently to see what it looked like and how it worked.

Whether mining is a legitimate business or not depends entirely upon the way in which it is carried on. When two or three sections of prospect holes are bought up for a few hundred dollars in stock, a company organized and treasury stock through the hands of the purpose of raising money to pay officers, mining is a swindle, and the only returns will be a fight with themselves on the part of those who have invested. When mines or even good prospect holes are purchased by individuals or stock companies with the determination to work them, and make a profit, and pay, and with honest and economical management, then, beyond a doubt, there is no more legitimate business than mining.—Journal-Miner.

The Ball.

The Christmas eve ball of the railroad employees library association was a brilliant affair indeed, and it will long be remembered as one of the most joyous occasions of the kind that ever took place in this city.

The attendance was large, fully three hundred and fifty persons were present. During the earlier hours of the evening much merriment was occasioned by the Christmas tree and the inactivity of the guests with those upon whom they were bestowed.

There were three hundred gifts distributed, many of them quite expensive. The Christmas tree was a Monterey pine, from Blue Canyon, Nevada, and was brought here expressly for the occasion.

The great dining room of the San Xavier was handsomely decorated with evergreens, and the ladies having this matter in charge, deserve credit for the taste, skill and industry displayed.

The exercises commenced with music, both instrumental and vocal, the latter being an exquisite gem from an opera, rendered by Miss Monahan.

Then the presents were handed down from the handsome Christmas tree and the real fun commenced.

Levi Martin was especially favored with a unique punch bowl, which was immediately put to a good purpose at Levi's expense.

Other equally valuable presents were experienced and one continuous round of enjoyment was had until the hotel guests began to depart.

The supper was a grand affair and every one enjoyed it. Well, it has been experienced in Tucson, and to the credit of the railroad employees who managed it, it was a success.

Such another happy occasion has never been experienced in Tucson, and to the credit of the railroad employees who managed it, it was a success.

In a financial sense, the affair realized the expectations of the committee, which was all that was expected; but in a social sense there was nothing left unattended, and those who participated, even now, are satisfied with the company, and planning and working for its development.

A Holiday Tale.

(By John H. H. H.)

The wonderful intelligence of Henry Banta's dog, which was recorded in the columns of the Herald several weeks ago, has set the town talking.

All the village dogs are now upon their guard, and the owners are waging. An article of the Herald office, who is the owner of a large number of dogs, has been told that his dog chased a chipmunk into a hollow place in the ground, and after vainly endeavoring to get the little creature out, he laid down and died.

It is the form of treatment successful? "It is wonderfully so, and for that reason I am only too willing that you should publish it to the world of consumptives."

Note by the Publishers.—We have received the above interview from H. H. Warner & Co., Rochester, N. Y., with the request that we publish it for the good of suffering people. In a foot note to the letter they say:

"The experience of Dr. Clark is not strange to us. In our correspondence we have heard from many people who are suffering from what they think is Consumption, whereas the real difficulty is with the liver and kidneys, proven by the analysis of the organs are restored to health by the use of Warner's safe cure, the consumption disappears, and so does uremic or kidney poisoning."

The Philadelphia dog doesn't always insist on knowing her fellow's grandeur. She is content to have her master's hand on her head, and to be called "old woman."

There is more "solid wealth" in one block of Philadelphia than in a dozen of New York's many art treasures as in Boston.

Philadelphia does not live exclusively on soap, pepper, rice, and other necessities. It has a large number of poets, and many of them are good.

Philadelphia is not a "Quaker City" any longer. Gray clothes and "thous and thous" are rare here.

A Blaze.

An alarm of fire was sounded between ten and eleven o'clock last night and both fire companies responded so promptly that before many had learned where the fire was it had been extinguished.

A blaze was discovered in the Mint saloon, on Congress street, between Mr. E. Hartman, and was occasioned undoubtedly by rats getting among the shelves kept in a cupboard beneath the tables. The fire was not noticed until it had reached a considerable amount of damage; the bottled liquors and cigars being injured chiefly.

The stock of liquors, wines, etc., was insured for $500 in the Svea Fire Insurance company of Gothenburg, represented by Wm. A. Scott, Jr., who will adjust the loss.

The loss was somewhat greater than at first supposed. The heavy partying that was going on at the time, and the fact that the rats were not noticed until it had reached a considerable amount of damage; the bottled liquors and cigars being injured chiefly.

VIEWING THE ENEMY'S POSITION.

How Gen. Meade Examined the Confederate Works to His Heart's Content. June 19—Sunday.—Pickets were firing all night. Today has been bright and excellent. In time, the pickets will be working all day. We marched back to our original position last night, but brought all the pickets to the city—Petersburg. At 9 a. m. a battery of mortars commenced shelling the enemy, doing much execution.

At 10 a. m. an order landed me a note from Gen. Meade, in which he told me to go to the front. I went at once, and Gen. Meade ordered him to charge the enemy's work in front immediately, and he asked me my opinion as to how many men it would cost. I sent word back that I thought it would cost 20,000 men, and then it was doubtful as to our being able to carry the works. Gen. Meade sent me to Gen. Meade, and after reading it, sent for me to come to his headquarters at once. I went at once, and Gen. Meade ordered him to charge the enemy's work in front immediately, and he asked me my opinion as to how many men it would cost.

PECULIAR PHRASES.

THE KIND OF EXPRESSIONS USED BY OUR SOCIETY DARLINGS.

Words Applied in a Way Which Would Astonish the Dictionary Makers—Exclamations of Dizzy Dudes—Fragrant Phrases of Fair Maidens.

"Thanks awfully," says the society maiden of Gotham when some favored youth sends her a $50 bouquet for the garden, and she goes to the dance with the flowers in her pretty hand and a bewitching smile.

She doesn't stop to think that "thanks" is a vulgar word, and that "awfully" is a slangy, and that "awful" means terrible or horrible. She thinks the florist's bill really "awful."

One listening with a critical ear to the conversation of a fashionable gathering will find many of the words used in a way not spoken of by any of the great dictionary makers, and the foreigner who comes here for the first time is admitted to the fact that the English circle is often bewildered by the strangeness of the language.

"I'm just so-and-so," says a society girl of Gotham last winter to an Austrian count, with whom she was promenading. He was so bewildered that he was obliged to ask her to repeat the words. She was obliged to repeat them, and he was obliged to ask her to repeat them.

She was obliged to repeat them, and he was obliged to ask her to repeat them. She was obliged to repeat them, and he was obliged to ask her to repeat them. She was obliged to repeat them, and he was obliged to ask her to repeat them.
